Why has Himmler offered to surrender to the western Allies but not to the Russians? Is he likely to bow to the demand for unconditional surrender to all the Allied powers? Is Hitler dead or incapacitated?

These queries remained without definite answer, but there was this gratifying certainty. The Allied war chiefs aren't pausing to solve mysteries but have continued to tear to pieces the final defences of Germany.

SOME TIME THIS WEEK THE DELEgates to the United Nations Conference on International Organization will figuratively take off their coats, roll up their sleeves and go to work in earnest. The time for the turning of fine phrases will have passed. Not that the representatives of more than two dozen nations have surreptitiously concealed diplomatic stilettos on their respective persons for use in the fashioned way. It simply means that the theatricals of the past week will be replaced by plain and straightforward talk-a deal of which, of course, will occur in private. But as practically the whole world, through its accredited representatives, will be privy to all that goes on, the products of these more intensive deliberations cannot by any stretch of the imagination be considered the harvest of secret diplomacy. On the contrary, if they are what the free peoples of the earth expect them to be, they will be translatable into the foundations of a world security plan that will insure perma-

Briefly put, as soon as the plenary see sions end, much of the business of the conference will be turned over to commissions, each of which will divide into technical tudes in these proceedings would come under the heading of surplus verbal baggage. For example, it will be the duty of one of | tion. the commissions to find some satisfactory method of meeting the almost universal demand that the conception of justice be written formally into the charter and not taken for granted. Inherent in this requirement must be a statement of rules, principles and criteria to direct the new world organization in its approach to decisions. And simple language must be used to express certain moral precepts of justice, equity and fair dealing. No charter would be welcomed which, because of loose language, could be interpreted-in even the most remote contingency—to mean that the security council envisaged by the Dumbarton Oaks proposals in its efforts to preserve or restore peace should connive or wink at any injustice. Similarly careful must be the other commissions and their respective technical committees in the manner in which they build the remaining sections of the ultimate struc-

What a hopeful and expectant world public ought to keep firmly in its mind is the patent fact, to use the late President Roosevelt's warning, that the aim of this conference is not "perfectionism." As we have said before in these columns, if at the end of this unique gathering the sponsoring powers are as united in common purpose as they have been in their joint prosecution of the war, a very long step toward the desired objective of permanent peace will have been taken. No single plan at a single parley can hope to build a structure that will require no further improvements or alterations. At best it will be a compromise. But what should result from that compromise ought to fit comparatively effectively into the conditions of continuing war—for Japan of a mild demeanor, depends on his real —yet to be defeated—and of transition from ability as an artist. Hundreds of unknown a world in conflict to a world which has reactors have alternated Macbeth with the this will need to be implied in the charter. mal peacetime conditions; but even in this respect, if sufficient flexibility is let into the first experiment with a new charter, subsequent improvements and alterations should not be too difficult to make. It is undesirable, however, at this early stage in destiny is fulfilled. They who have cultiwild speculation as to the final outcome. The fact that harmony and mutual trust seem to be prevailing is sufficient on which to base hopes for practical results.

The long, black night which drew down on London in 1939 is over and, to those who have passed almost six years in the shadow of death and disaster, the triumph that has come to them through faith and fortitude is signalized by the simple fact that all over London the lights are on again. No more they walk in darkness, no longer they wait in doubt. From every corner, in every shop window, in the alleyways of old London and the great traffic ways of the new, the lights shine out again,

No longer great areas of London flame to heaven under a pitiless rain of bombs from the sky. Instead the unworthy rival, Berlin, lies a smoking ruin, destroyed by the very weapons of her choice. And the Germans now want to invoke international law to prevent any future repetition of their own wanton destruction of undefended cities; a destruction they insisted on as the penalty of resistance to their gospel of terror. So it would contain nothing which is not I received over 60 letters, and reessential in order to establish the interna-tional organization. I cannot thank you enough this framework is the fundamental pact of for your kindness to me. union: it will bind the nations to meet regularly in order to reach agreements to carry out the purposes of the organization.

Once we have this basic pact, we shall have the essential charter. Whether anything else should be put into the charter is really a practical judgment-namely this ther this conference in San Francisco is better fitted to decide any particular question than will be future meetings of the assembly and the council.

For the San Francisco meeting is a meet ng of the United Nations; the international organization will provide for a continuing series of meetings of these same United Nations. These nations are no wiser or better because they are meeting in San Francisco in April, 1945, than they will be when next they meet wherever the international organ-

THERE WILL BE, I believe, a great advantage in remembering that the San Francisco meeting need decide no question which the subsequent meetings of the same United Nations could not decide at least as well—and perhaps better because the issues will have become clearer and there will have been more time to examine them. Thus it is very doubtful, it seems to me, whether the charter needs to prescribe exactly how votes are to be counted in the assembly and in the council. Why not let them determine their own voting procedure? The attempt to determine it for them has led to bitter failure to adjust themselves more eeling over a series of intricate formulae designed to cover a few imaginary cases on these questions happen to have thought of. The attempt to say now that on this question the vote shall be unanimous, on that one by majority, on another by two thirds, is to try to foresee and foreclose what no one now can foresee and no one should foreclose oting formula is in the charter, the more it will correspond with the realities, and the less we shall now be involved in issues of prestige and in odious distinctions between first, second, and third class states which arise from being unnecessarily specific in

VENTURE TO think that it is equally impossible to write into the charter an effective commitment to use force. The charter can, and should, authorize the use of force. But the commitment which binds each particular government to take forcible action can be made effective in advance only by specific military conventions which have en negotiated and ratified. There can be no such thing as an effective generalized ommitment to use armed force at an unknown time in an unspecified place against a hypothetical aggressor. The enforcement specific conventions for definite purposes for example to police Germany, to police lics, to police the Pacific Ocean, the Atlantic Ocean, the Mediterranean, and so forth. All But obviously the charter can only authorize mobilization of collective force only as, if, and when the governments, meeting in the to meet in order to agree is all that is possible and all that is necessary. If the powers agree when they meet that they will use force to maintain peace, they will use it. If they do not agree when they meet, then no formula

The document that comes out of San Francisco should be very short, very simple, and concerned only with establishing a framework, declaring a purpose, and authorizing the means to fulfill it. All the rest, the chanisms, the procedures, the methods, for welfare, should be developed by the organization itself through statutes and resolutions, and by its members through general and special conventions, pacts, protocols, and treaties designed to serve the declared pur pose or to be consistent with it, By adhering to this broad principlewhich is to differentiate between a constitution and a body of laws-we can create a living organism that will itself grow and desurely regret it.

Through protests from all Canadian anti-vivisection societies a project to use Montreal's city horses in connection with antitetanus serum production has been dropped. Protests are also being lodged against the quarantine and destruction of dogs in Ontario under a federal rabies ruling. The U.S. is also protesting.

The local society is sending donations to seven animal war charities abroad, part proceeds of its birthday celebration. A correspondent in California has asked for the society's list that contributions may be raised in the south for a similar purpose.

A circular letter from Illinois was read, relative to the remarkable results of Nurse Kenny's infantile paralysis work. An affidavit from Illinois was produced showing the terrible ill-treatment of animals in laboratories.

All British and Canadian delegates to the conference in San Francisco have been circularized by Canadian anti-vivisection societies, regarding its undertakings.

Passing members include A. Mansfield and P. A. Crump. New members have joined the society. As the local society does considerable advertising (which many local organizations do not do) and as the press reports it receives are very meagre, the directors were of opinion that they should find some more suitable method of gaining publicity than through local press advertisements.

Mrs. Alan Morkill was 'reelected president of the Women's Workroom Committee at the annual meeting. Other officers are vice-president, Mrs. A. F. D. Mc-Gachen; treasurer, Miss E. M. Macrae; secretary, Miss Lola B. Maxwell; workroom convener, Mrs. Swayne; executive, Mrs. A. H. Pease, Mrs. T. L. Thorpe-Doubble, Mrs. Alex Gillespie, Miss Denise Mara and Miss

The treasurer's report, read by Miss Denise Mara, revealed that during 1944 the workroom had been self-supporting and had not drawn on the Community Chest for the budgetted amount. It was pointed out, however, that since the workroom shop on Yates Street had been closed, and that source of support with-drawn, it might be necessary to seek assistance in 1945.

The work of those employed in the rooms continues to be satisfactory and it is impossible at present to handle all the orders.

Thorsen On London Leave

By ROY 'CAP' THORSEN Former Victoria Daily Times Reporter

LONDON - The pretty blue eyes that looked up at me from the cute face of six-year-old Joan, daughter of Millie, eldest of many Canucks' favorite English family—the Blythings of 20 Farmleigh Road, Southgate, London-were very earnest when she put the wish and request to me:

"I hope you catch lots of Germans, Uncle Cap, and—and pulease make them cry " she urged. And why did little Joan want me to make them cry? Well, a couple of times Jerry's

V bombs fell close and scared her into tears. Believe me, that (thank God!) was to force her into tears she wanted them punished in a like manner . . . A more mature mind, however, those who see and understand the horrors of a war waged against a civilian population h Nazi long-range snipers, would consider crying the very least o the punishments the Nazic d serve-for dead and from these missiles had been a great many and tremendous property damage to boot.

A. C. Blything, veteran of the 1914-18 war, of whom I wrote before I left two years ago for Sicily, told me how power-less he felt during the months of the blitz . . : "We could not his back at him—oh, there were times during the height of it all when I felt I'd sooner be 'out there in the frontline with you boys again," Mr. Bee confessed. "Its hell 'out there' for you too, I know, but it is what is expected and there are lots of opportunities to square scores with Jerry."

It was nice to shake the hand of Victoria's Mrs. E. Anderson Newark again in the basement canteen of Syracuse British Columbia House on Regent Street in busy West End London—the buzz bomb blitz had not touched it, we were glad to see. Mrs. Anderson told me she had just passed her 50th anniversary as the chief of the B.C. House conteen . . . And, honestly, the meals of her staff are still just as excellent as they were two years ago. The large number of Excellent as they were two years ago. BREAKING-UP of the "Big Three" in British Columbia horse In B.C. Tourney racing has commenced with the resignation last week of secretary Art Dingman, holder of the position for the last 12 years. Dingman's departure leaves presiding steward Dr. W. J. McKeon and his assistant Earle Lewis holding the fort. At the close of racing on Vancouver tracks last summer it was intimated there would be changes in the ranks of the officials. In some quarters the Powell River squad, managed to get into the first managed to get into the first It was suggested a complete house cleaning was necessary. REPLACING Dingham will be Capt. W. J. (Bill) Jones, of this city, who has held the job of racing secretary for several seasons at the Willows. Jones knows the horses in these parts and is familiar with racing conditions on Vancouver and Victoria tracks. Of great importance also is the fact that he has always been a popular figure with the horsemen. So when racing resumes at Vancouver June 30 the racing set-up will most likely be McKeon, Lewis and Jones.

THAT KNOCKOUT VICTORY registered by Canada's Johnny Greco Friday night over Chuck Taylor should have moved the Dominion's ranking fighter a lot closer to that title fight with welterweight champion Freddie (Red) Cochrane. In this connection Maurie Waxman, manager of Bobby Ruffin, writes as follows in a well-known fight magazine: "With Ray Robinson back in the army, the hard-hitting Canadian is now the best box office attraction among the welters and most likely opponent of all for welter king Cochrane. The three fights Greco had with Ruffin netted close to a quarter of a million dollars, which is an interesting figure to cast one's eyes at for any fight manager.

RECENT proposal made by Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto suggesting that the Gardens become the permanent home of the position, Monarchs rolled 2,885 Memorial Cup playoffs as well as hall of fame for junior hockey from a 54-pin spot for 48th place, has drawn sharp criticism from other parts of Canada. Maurice Smith, Winnipeg scribe, points out that inasmuch as the Gardens a 64-pin start for 52nd berth had an attendance averaging 13,000 per game this year, it is no wonder the Gardens want to keep the finals. Over a period of many years now, the junior final has proved to be a money-maker. As for the proposal to make a hall of fame for juniors at the Gardens any rink management in Canada would be pleased to duplicate the offer under the same conditions.

VANCOUVER (CP) - North Shore United defeated Boeings, 3 to 2, in a Coast Soccer League game at Brickton Oval Saturday to draw level with St. Saviour's at the head of the standings with

They meet in the final game of the schedule, so the result will decide the second-half championship, If North Shore beat the Tigers it will cause a playeff for the league title, as St. Saviour's won the first half, but a win for the latter over the Reds will give them the crown without playoff.

You'll turn to bread especially these days as an essential high-energy, low-cost food. It supplies Vitamin B, and it's a fine stretcher for other foods, too. If you bake bread at home-don't risk any failures. Use Fleischmann's fresh Yeast. It has been Canada's favorite for over 70 years because it gives such good bread every time. Ask for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast, with the familiar yellow label. At your grocer's.

SAN FRANCISCO. BURSTING AT THE SEAMS

THAT HOMELY PHRASE just about expresses San Francisco at the present It has been inclining that way during th last few years, as wartime activities caused it to acquire a prosperous plumpness. And now the World Security Conference has put the final strain not only upon its material, but also upon its human, resources. For this Golden Gate city has changed appreciably since we were last here in 1938. Then it was a "ghost port," with wharves closed and unemployment rife. Today, its prewar population has risen from 634,000 to 800,000—to say nothing of a floating population of tens of thousands of service personnel and civilians. HEADACHES FOR HOTELS

TAKE THE HOTEL situation alone. Since Pearl Harbor they have shown an occupancy of close to 100 per cent.

With this the chief port of embarkation for the Pacific war, hotels have been having eir worries trying to accommodate service personnel either coming or going.

But since the conference was mooted, they have been in the throes of a major headache, trying to make the hotels elastic-sided And to jam an estimated 3,500 delegates and press and radio representatives into

2,500 rooms, takes some stretching.

At first the United States State Department thought only the seven Class A hotels, the Fairmont, Mark Hopkins, Sir Francis Drake, St. Francis, Palace, Cliff, and Whitcomb, would be needed.

The lobbies of those hotels which house the important delegates are a state of pande monium—no matter when you go there.

LOBBY LOUNGERS DRESS CONFERENCES are held at intervals at the St. Francis. But we find it hard to force our way through the teeming crowds in the lobbies. Not only are the notables and near-notables about, together with a multiciplicity of officials and volunteer workers, but the lobby loungers are there in force.

They are of both sexes. Grim-faced women occupy every available seat, sit on the arms of chairs and chesterfields, looking as if nothing would displace them.

Others are perched on the stairs, or stand four or five deep around the walls. I don't know when they go home or whether they bring box lunches with them, but they are Not so long as there is any chance of their catching sight of some world figure, or even a movie actress. CRACKPOTS DISCOURAGED

IN VIEW OF ALL THIS, I don't wonder that San Francisco had a major task in keeping out all those who had no official or unofficial business but who thought they should be allowed to come from north, south, east and west just to look at the dignitaries.

Talking to one of the women connected with the preliminary arrangements, she told me that they had to be stern with all the "crackpots" who wanted to come, and the groups that wanted to send observers.

For the United States is definitely organization-conscious, with its service clubs, fraternal orders, peace groups and women's

So I can well imagine that San Francisco is going to face a conference "hang-over" in the shape of maledictions from a number of disappointed crackpots and soreheads.

But I think it will survive—as it has survived other troubles!
